

You may have heard the phrase “If you want to get to understand someone walk a mile in their shoes.” It does not really work that way. If I walk a mile in someone’s shoes, I am still seeing everything through my filters and with my background. If I want to understand someone, I need to listen to them talk about their experiences, feelings, and the obstacles they overcame.

Representation matters one of my goals this year along with continuing to highlight the diversity in our history I want to celebrate who we are today. To do that I need your help. If there is a member you want to recognize during one of the recognition months or any time of the year let me know. Or if you have any ideas please share. The more we listen to the voices of others the more we will expect to hear them.

You may have heard the phrase, “If you want to understand someone - walk a mile in their shoes.” It does not work that way. If I walk a mile in someone’s shoes, I still see everything through my filters and my background. If I want to understand someone, I need to listen to them talk about their experiences, feelings, and the obstacles they overcame.

Representation matters. I will be continuing to highlight the diversity in our history. One of my goals this year is to celebrate who we are today. I need your help to accomplish this goal. If there is a member you want to recognize during one of the recognition months or any time of the year, let me know. Or if you have any ideas, please share. The more we listen to the voices of others - the more we will expect to hear them.

Lt. Col Patricia Schmidt